I am very grateful to have met Attorney James L. Walker, Jr. He helped me with a very big case in the music industry, and I was fortunate to find someone who truly understood it. He diligently explained the process to me every step of the way.

Attorney Walker is one of the best in the industry, and I always brag about him to my peers. His heart for making sure people get the diligence they deserve is great to see. If you ask me, he's a top-tier attorney.

I met him on a random phone call, and it generated a bond I didn't expect. He has a really great spirit, kind of like a big brother — a man of faith who was very encouraging at a time when I needed encouragement in my career. He's definitely a blessing and someone who genuinely helps others. There are a lot of good attorneys out there, but he is someone special.

I appreciate him and his team, and I always make sure to shout out Attorney Walker every opportunity I get.

I have a very long and rich history with James L. Walker, Jr.; I've known him for over 30 years. He used to be corporate counsel for our record company, and I was even his landlady at one point, though you'd never know it now. I remember his Christmas parties, the Sony case, and so much more.

James is an integrity-driven man for the people, and I've found his team to be of the same caliber. He is synonymous with honor, integrity, and courage.

I've watched him at the Walker Building in Connecticut, helping anyone he could and connecting people every chance he got. He is the epitome of someone who never forgot where he came from. James has never developed the arrogant gene that so many professionals in this industry seem to pick up.

In other words, I am crazy about James L. Walker, Jr., and if you are around him, you are in good hands.
